

As a resident of a small to medium size community, I would hate to lose Klove as an option of listening on my FM stations. Yes, we do have several other Christian channels, but they are not the same format nor play the same music that I and many others in the community enjoy on Klove on a daily basis. And although the letter I received from Klove indicates that they are heard on three other local channels, I have never heard their programming being played. I can only assume that it is played in the middle of the night when majority of the community is asleep. Klove's programming is clean, inspirational, and commercial-free, 3 things that many stations lack here.
